Event Subject

Contractors working in engineering or construction don't have it easy when it comes to financial admin. There are so many rules and regulations about tax and IR35, all rigorously policed by HMRC, that it becomes difficult to know how to act.

A local specialist accountancy company, Simply Contracting Ltd, are hosting a free seminar to address these concerns on April 29th. Their main speakers are Accountax Consulting, the only firm who have taken IR35 cases before Tax Tribunals and won! Accountax will present what speaker Matt Boddington calls 'an IR35 myth-busting masterclass', which he promises will be no-nonsense and highly practical.

Contractors will be able to discover the best IR35 defence strategies, and why HMRC pick certain cases to investigate. Accountax have all the latest case law information and will discuss how this relates to you, together with which way the courts are currently leaning.

They'll look at the case of Dragonfly Consulting, revealing the true story behind it and explaining how the case can be used against HMRC.

"Rumours will be scotched and myths will be exploded", says Matt. "We'll give the IR35 facts from the front-line and tell you what will really keep the taxman away from your door."

The seminar is bound to be of interest to every contractor who potentially falls into the IR35 net. It will even cover such thorny issues as whether HRMC can pursue you personally for IR35 as well as your limited company.

Event Site

The free seminar takes place between 4pm and 7pm on Wednesday April 29th in the Lecture Room at Sellafield's Visitor Centre.
